STREET PAVING.

Preliminary Steps Taken by City Council.

Engineer Employed to Make Survey and Maps of Louisa for Sewer and Paving Purposes.

Pursuant to the call of the chairman the city council of Louisa met on Tuesday night last for the transaction of general business. It had been rumored that the matter of street paving would be considered, and this was sufficient to attract a large crowd of citizens and taxpayers. All the members of the board were present except Councilman Wilson. The only subject discussed was that of paving, and this received much attention. There was no doubt of the need of paved streets in Louisa expressed, but as to ways and means some difference of opinion was manifested. All things must have a beginning, and in order to start this desirable work a committee was appointed to employ a competent engineer to make a survey of the streets, establish a grade and prepare plans and specifications for the proposed improvement. The committee named are C. L. Miller, R. L. Vinson and H. G. Wellman, and on Wednesday afternoon they met with Mr. John McDyer, of Ashland, a man in every way competent. They went all over the city, examining streets, and finally concluded that Mr. McDyer and as many of the members of the council as possible would meet in Catlettsburg and go to Huntington and Ashland and study the paving of those cities. This will be done at once. Mr. McDyer will be employed to make the survey of Louisa, as mentioned, and on such terms as may be agreed upon hereafter.

The proposed area of paving is bounded on the east by Water street, on the north by Perry, on the west by Lady Washington and on the south by Franklin. It is proposed to pave Main Cross to the college building, Jefferson to D. J. Burchett's and Lady Washington to E. Ferguson's.

The sewerage proposition is quite a large factor in this matter, and a report from the engineer will be necessary to show the requirements and cost.

The water company proposes to lay new water mains on each side of the paving, so that it will not be necessary to disturb the paving for repairs and service lines.

The paving will probably be laid from 20 to 25 feet wide.

Drowned Near Hellier.

The 6-years-old daughter of Alex Phipps at the Edgewater mines near Hellier, was drowned last Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock. When the family awakened their home was floating in the water. Mrs. Phipps reached safety with two of the children through the back entrance, but Mr. Phipps was carrying the little girl through the front entrance, when the front porch separated from the house. He fell into the water losing his hold upon the child and she washed away. Her body was found one mile below the home.

APPROPRIATION FOR ROAD.

At the late term of the Lawrence Fiscal Court an appropriation of $500 was made for the improvement of the county road between Louisa and the forks of Little Blaine, the work to begin at once. To this sum the various oil companies doing business in that section have agreed to contribute $250 more. Properly expended this sum should be made to do much for the improvement which is so badly needed.

John W. Hall Married.

The marriage of Miss Lilla Jane Phelps and Mr. John W. Hall, both of this city, took place in Winchester Saturday evening at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. Mr. MacNeill, pastor of the First Christian Church of that city. The bride and bridegroom wishing to have the celebration of their nuptials in the most simple way stole quietly over to Winchester, "via the motor route," as a friend suggests. They were accompanied in the motor car by the bride's sister, Miss Elizabeth Phelps, and at Winchester were joined by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Parks, friends of the bridegroom.

The bride was pretty in a handsome tailored suit of blue cloth and carried a beautiful bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. After the marriage ceremony the bridal party returned to this city and will go immediately to house-keeping in a cozy and attractive home at 638 Euclid avenue.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Phelps, of Aylesford Place. She is very popular and accomplished, and has until lately held a responsible position at the Experiment Station, State University.

Mr. Hall is a native of Winchester and made the acquaintance of Miss Phelps while she was secretary to a law firm in Winchester. He is now general bookkeeper for the Burley Society, having come to Lexington at the time the Burley Society moved their office here.—Lexington Leader.

The Louisa friends of "Red" Hall will be glad to hear of his good fortune. He was a resident of this city for some time, holding a position in the U. S. engineer office.

Jurors For Wayne May Court.

These are the jurors selected from Butler township to serve at the May term of the Wayne Circuit Court:

Petit jury:—Jno. P. Billups, O. M. Billups, Bert Thacker, Lindsey Thompson, J. B. Bragg, Wayne Copley, Robert Rayburn, John Lynch, Jesse McKinster.

Grand jury:—Cosie Handley, Anderville Christian, F. W. Thompson and Anthony Plymale.

LOSES A LEG.

Robert Thompson Seriously Hurt By Falling Tree.

A very serious and distressing accident occurred near the home of former County Judge John H. Thompson, of Horseford, on Thursday morning last, whereby his son, Robert, aged about 22 years, sustained the loss of his right leg.

The young man had gone to the hillside two or three hundred yards from the house for the purpose of cutting down a tree. He had not proceeded far with the work until the tree, a hollow one, fell, and before Mr. Thompson could get out of its way it caught his leg and pinned him to the ground, crushing and lacerating the member in a horrible manner. Such was the condition of the fallen tree and the young man's limb that the trunk of the tree had to be sawed in two before he could be extricated.

Surgical aid was hastily summoned, and Drs. Carter, of Fallsburg, and Burgess, of Louisa, met at the house, Dr. Bromley arriving later. It was decided that amputation was necessary, and the leg was taken off about half way between the knee and hip by Dr. Burgess, Drs. Thompson and Carter assisting. Mr. Thompson bore the operation well and is reported doing very nicely.

Mr. Thompson is an excellent young man, and this unfortunate accident, which crippled him for life, is greatly deplored by his many friends.

DAMAGE ON SHELBY.

Now that the high waters have receded, it is estimated that 25,000 yards of grade on the new Shelby creek road has been washed out by the floods in the different places along the route. The Sandy Telephone Company has also sustained about $1,000 damage to their various lines.

LAWRENCE FOR TEDDY.

Roosevelt Followers Turn Out In Full Force.

The Lawrence county clans of Roosevelt and Taft gathered in the court house in Louisa on Saturday afternoon last to try conclusions in a battle for delegates and instructions, who should be sent for whom they should vote. It was a beautiful day, and a large number of our Republican friends had come to assist in making the Chicago nominee. A large number of Democrats were also present when Chairman Burgess rapped for order and called his brethren of the Big Stick and the Steam Roller to sit up and take notice of what was about to follow. C. L. Miller was made Chairman and Jay Roberts Secretary of the meeting. A committee of eleven was appointed to draft resolutions. The committee retired to look over the resolutions which were born several hours—possibly days—before the convention met. Up to this time everything proceeded with a smoothness and sweetness that was almost cherubic. The heavenly calm continued until the committee returned from the incubator, and Mr. W. T. Cain displayed, verbally, one of the products of the hatch. Stripped of its feathers it revealed a resolution that Judge O'Rear, of Montgomery, and Mr. Combes, of Fayette ought to be delegates from the State at large to the Republican National Convention, and that the county's instruction should be for Roosevelt.

Mr. Cain had a pretty good speech embodied in his report. He moved the adoption of the report, and this was the thunderbolt which soured all the cream in the churn. "Mr. Chairman," shouted Mr. R. C. McClure, as he sprang to his feet, "Mr. Chairman, your committee has a minority report to read," and he was about to read it when some man with a Roosevelt badge said something about a point of order—that Mr. McClure had no right to read anything not even his title clear, at this juncture, but it didn't take long to convince Chairman Miller that the late minority leader of the House—minority leader again, you see—had a perfect right to read his report, and he read it. Say boys, that report was a june sweeter. It didn't say much about the price of potatoes, bad roads or the probability of its raining on Easter but what it said about Taft and the greatness of that rotund and hefty statesman was both orful and ornate.

Bled down, it declared, for John Russell, of Ashland, and Judge Halbert, of Lewis county, for district delegates and "Dear Will"—this is what Teddy used to call the President—for another term. When Mr. McClure had finished he was finished, for the vote was taken on the majority report and the victory of the Big Stick over the Roller was so decided and convincing that the Taft forces gave it up. In announcing his defeat Mr. McClure pronounced a fitting eulogy over the "remains," admitting present death but predicting a glorious resurrection on the idea of next November.

The friends of Mr. Joe Swetnam perceived signs of a verbal eruption on his person, so they kindly gave him the call, and Joe went at the Taftites, hammer and tongs. They, meaning the Rooseveltians, weren't office-holders, Joe said, but they, like him, were members of the "one-gallussed" party whatever that may mean. This was the refrain of Joe's speech Saturday, but it would be a safe bet to say that a slight search would have revealed the fact that if he wore any gallusses at all on that occasion he wore two. Anyhow what he said was well received.

The following were appointed delegates and alternates:

Jas. Norton, Bill Burton, C. L. Miller, H. E. Evans, Joe Bussey, Jr., Mont Holt, W. S. Chapman, J. S. Judd, Gus Muncey, W. J. Roberts, Wm. Savage, J. W. See, J. T. Swetnam, L. F. Wellman, W. T. Cain, Garfield Moore, T. B. Billups, Warren Castle, S. J. Picklesimer, R. C. McClure, Dock Jordan.

Alternates:—Dr. J. J. Gambill, Dr. W. A. Rice, Sine Collinsworth, Charley Miller, Dr. Jay Carter, Tom Heston, Dr. C. C. Wheeler, Jas. Johns, Charley Roberts, H. B. Mun-cey, Jas. Hale, J. A. Abbott, Billie Riffe, H. B. Salter, C. L. Cain, Dr. Sam Frasher, Frank Hammond, A. C. Holbrook.

Of all these only R. C. McClure, L. T. McClure and Taylor Billups went as delegates to the district convention at Maysville on the 9th and to the State convention at Louisville on the 10th.

Damage On Beaver.

Mr. James Compton, of this place, who had been on Beaver creek for more than a week, working on the boilers of the oil plants in operation there, returned to Louisa Tuesday afternoon. He brings news of much destruction of well machinery on Beaver and its tributaries by the storm of Monday night. Two tanks, one on Salt Lick one on Lick Fork, were washed away. One was about two-thirds full and the other one-half full of oil. These were about 17 miles from the mouth of Beaver. The tank houses were also destroyed. Several bull wheels belonging to the derricks were washed away, the derricks themselves being thrown out of position by tons of mud, sand and debris. Several gas and oil pipe lines were broken, and the creek and its forks were rendered impassable by the torrent which swept down the valley. Mr. Compton thinks it will be at least ten days before drilling operations can be resumed in that locality.

The Easter Storm.

It was no squall that brought sorrow to the hearts of many last Sunday, it was a storm. In the forenoon the rain fell in torrents for a while, and in the afternoon overcoats were comfortable. When the bells rang for service the belles came out with their bows covered with ugly raincoats, and the beaux appeared in low-necked shoes and with their pretty pants turned up in the latest sartorial style. They-the pants-looked just too sweet for anything. The depot reception committee was very angry because the mean old train was so late they just had to leave without seeing it go by. Too bad, but it could not be helped and going over to "see 16 run" was marred by the cold, high wind.

FORMER POSTMASTER

Confessed He Burned Office To Cover Theft of Miser's Money.

Huntington, W. Va., April 8.—One of the most baffling cases ever faced by Postoffice inspectors was definitely solved here today when Alex H. Trent, former Postmaster at Horse Pen, confessed in the Federal Court that he burned the postoffice to cover up the theft by himself of a registered letter containing $2,900.

Trent got Harrison Hatfield, an old recluse of Mingo county, to withdraw his money from a bank during the panic of 1907, and had him order it sent to him by registered mail. On the night the money arrived the postoffice was burned. Trent was later arrested. Trent escaped and was recently located and brought back for trial.

Since the burning of the money Harrison Hatfield was tried and convicted of poisoning his wife and sent to the penitentiary. He died a few months ago.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

H. C. HERNDON DEAD.

Mr. H. C. Herndon, for many years a member of the Seventh district internal revenue force, died last Saturday morning at his home in Lexington, after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Herndon was severely injured by falling through an elevator shaft at Maysville about two years ago, and since that time his health had not been good. Mr. Herndon was well known in Louisa and vicinity through his many official visits to this section. He is survived by his widow but no children.

HIGH PRICE FOR TIMBER.

It is said that timber has recently sold in Catlettsburg for 52½ cents, and in one case for 60 cents per cube.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Spring Term of Lawrence Court Convened Monday.

The spring term of the Lawrence Circuit Court began Monday, April 8th, Judge J. B. Hannah presiding, and John M. Waugh, Commonwealth's Attorney, in his place as the representative of the people. Court was opened about 10:30 a. m., and the first work of the term, the impaneling of the grand jury, was done. The following comprise the jury as formed: F. H. Yates, foreman; James Shannon, J. T. Shannon, Pharoah Marcum, C. L. Osborn, G. L. Burk, Dan Stansberry, N. W. Gibson, Jesse Barnett, J. K. Chadwick, Joe Compton, Jas. A. Abbott.

Then followed the charge by the judge. Judge Hannah is always clear, forcible and comprehensive, and his deliverance of Monday was no exception. It contained no new features. The formation of the grand jury occupied the time until noon. At one o'clock the regular petit jury for the present term was impaneled. The jurors are as follows: M. E. Sparks, Isaac Adams, Wm. Howell, R. B. Judd, P. F. Skaggs, Mat Elam, Dolly Kise, David Thompson, C. K. Dobbins, George Carter, John Elswick, Arthur Blankenship, Mont Nelson, Wm. Barnett, Thos. Murphy, John Akers, T. W. Hensley, Burwell Derfield, D. J. Thompson, T. M. Hammond, N. K. Whitten, Theodore Kinner, Jake Roberts.

Following the organization of the jury the call of the commonwealth's docket began and has continued up to this writing. "Continued" expresses it pretty well, for of the 265 cases on this docket the majority of them have this word written after them.

So far the court proceedings have been devoid of public or special interest. "Foreign" attorneys have been conspicuous by their absence, and what is more remarkable, the crowds which usually attend the first days of court have not been present. The streets have a Sabbath quiet, and except for a few idlers in the court house yard one would never suspect that "big court" formerly something looked for and prepared for weeks in advance of its sitting, had really come and "sot."

Easter Services.

Louisa churches paid due attention to the glad holiday of the Christian year, Music and services appropriate to the happy occasion were heard in the various temples of worship. At the M. E. Church South the pastor, the Rev. J. W. Crites, preached, and the Rev. W. L. Reid, a former pastor, filled the pulpit. At the M. E. Church Prof. E. M. Kennison gave an expository sermon-lecture on the lesson of the day. The pastor, Dr. Hanford, was sick, and there was no evening service. The Rev. Dr. Powell, of Louisville, preached in the forenoon at the Baptist church. He was much indisposed and was compelled to speak sitting. The pastor, Rev. Archibald Cree, preached at night. Rev. C. M. Summers, of the Christian Church, was absent from the city.

nsant for State Chairman.

of Col. Rufus H. Vansant, of Ashland, are at work to secure his election as chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee at the coming State convention. He is said to be backed by John C. C. Mayo, Gen. Percy Haly and Johnson N. Camden. Col Vansant was at the head of the successful campaign for the Democratic State ticket last fall and made many friends over the State. It is understood that Judge Frank Bullock, of Lexington will also seek the State chairmanship, and if these two lock horns it will be a battle royal. Both have strong supporters who will go their length for them.

The Prestonsburg people have been in a state of mind for a good while about having to take too much physical exercise to get to and from the depot at the mouth of Beaver. Accordingly they have lodged a complaint with the Railroad Commission, seeking relief.

Hurt While Rafting Logs.

While rafting logs near his home on Maynard branch last Friday Mr. Charles Peters sustained a very painful and serious accident. He was assisting in moving a heavy log, when in some way it caught his right leg, breaking it and lacerating the muscles. He was carried to his home and Dr. Bromley was summoned. He set the fracture and made the injured man as comfortable as possible. In a day or two it was seen that the open wound had become infected and it was deemed best to bring the patient to Riverview hospital for treatment. He was brought to the hospital on Tuesday afternoon and is doing as well as could be expected.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Peters fell or was thrown from a horse and suffered a fracture of the left leg.

Prison Paroles.

Frankfort, Ky., April 4.—Paroles were granted to-day by the Prison Commission to Judge C. E. Booe, of Flemingsburg, defaulting Assistant State Auditor, who peculated $40,000 from the State Treasury in six years; Hiram Smedley, of Paducah, defaulting Circuit Clerk, who embezzled $25,000 of the state's money; James H. Parrish, of Owensboro who was connected with the Owensboro Bank and Trust Company, which failed for $250,000, and a long list of men convicted of murder.

A strong effort is being made by the friends of Curt Jett, Tom White and Henry Youtsey to get them paroles.

Another parole was that of Thomas McNeal, of Greenup county, murder, 10 years, 6 of which he had served.

Prizes For Colored Farmers.

A dispatch from Simpsonville, Ky., says: "Lincoln Institute again offers four cash prizes of $50, $25, $15 and $10 for the best measured acres of corn grown by colored Kentucky farmers on land owned by themselves. The offer last year was made so late that there were few entries and only two prizes were paid, to John Williams and Harry Lane, both near Maysville. Their record was very fine. It is hoped that a large number will this year enter the contest. Those wishing to be enrolled should write to Lincoln Institute, Simpsonville, Ky., for directions." We hope some of our colored farmers will go after those prizes and get them.

A Fortune In Her Stocking.

Huntington, W. Va., April 8.—Nancy McKeand, 67 was found dead along the N. & W. tracks near Kenova. She had been at Ceredo to make some purchases and on her way back to her home sat down along the railroad tracks to rest. She was a very heavy woman and having become over heated, she suffered a stroke of apoplexy, dying instantly.

When an undertaker prepared the body of the woman for burial he found sewed up in her skirt and hidden in her stockings $1,480.50 in money and negotiable securities. The finding of the money caused quite a sensation.

MARRIED IN LOUISA.

Miss Dixie Maynard and Mr. H. E. Keadle, of Williamson, came to Louisa on No. 15 last Sunday afternoon. A marriage license was procured, and at the residence of the officiating minister Rev. Dr. Hanford made them man and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Keadle were guests of the Savoy until No. 4 came along, when they returned to Williamson.

His neck was broken and his body badly mangled by the engine of his machine. He lived but a few moments.

The prospects are so uninviting for a Republican in the newly apportioned Ninth congressional district that it seems no one is hankering after the empty honor of the nomination for Congress. There was a goodly crop of aspirants in the E. O. P. camp until the Legislature passed the Pritchard congressional redistricting act, and then they

"woke up." Until the addition of six Democratic counties transferred from the Tenth district the Ninth was really Republican in political complexion, the Democrats only being able to carry it by a narrow margin after the hardest kind of a fight.

Winchester, Ky., April 6.—Despondent and crazed by ill health, Miss Cassie Conkwright, aged forty, a school teacher, committed suicide this morning by drowning herself. She was the daughter of Judge J. N. Conkwright. Owing to her mental condition she had been watched closely for some time by the family, but slipped off this morning and ended her life.

Returns from Republican county mass conventions held throughout Kentucky Saturday indicated that President Taft will easily control the Congressional district and State conventions to be held this week. A majority of Taft delegates will hold the credentials signed by the proper party authorities in ten out of eleven congressional districts in the State. Roosevelt delegates will control the Eleventh district convention which meets at Corbin.

Frankfort, Ky., April 4.—The Prison Commission today paroled Judge C. E. Booe, the former State Auditor's clerk, who robbed the State of something like $40,000 by falsifying vouchers and endorsing fictitious names on the backs of treasurer's checks. He was sentenced to thirteen years and has served a little over three years. If he had served his full time out he would have been allowed over three years for good time.

She has written more than seven thousand hymns, among them "Safe In the Arms of Jesus," "Jesus the Water of Life Will Give." Mrs. Crosby has been blind since she was six years old. She is still enjoying good health and spends most of her time, when not dictating hymns, in knitting.

St. Francis levee, nine miles north of Memphis, and the levee at Wynoke Landing, seven miles south of that city, broke, submerging many square miles of territory on the Arkansas side of the river. Railroad communication with Memphis was expected to be cut off during the night. Experts declared last night that other levees may break at any moment. Water rushing through the break in the Government levee at Hickman has submerged part of Fulton county and may yet engulf Reelfoot lake, eventually changing the channel of the river, it is said. The Army Department has been authorized to expend $30,000 in immediate relief work in the Hickman-Memphis district.

With the breaking of the Government levee west of Hickman the Mississippi overflowed several counties in Kentucky and Tennessee and is rapidly transforming 150 square miles of farming lands into an inland sea. Reelfoot Lake will be engulfed in the flood. Apprehension is felt for the safety of lives in the remote sections. Citizens engaged in an effort to hold the levee narrowly saved their lives.

Steubenville, O., April 6.—When pumpmen and trackmen of the United States Coal Company left the Bradley Mine of that company today they were attacked by Italian miners and there was a hand to hand battle in which several on both sides were severely injured and may die. The trackmen and pumpmen were kept at work under the laws of the State when the miners suspended work because of the wage scale conference, and the Italians took exception to this.

Cincinnati, O., April 5.—Col. Joseph L. Rodman a member of one of the most distinguished families of Kentucky died today at the home of his son, Frank A. Rodman in this city. Col. Rodman was born in New Castle, Ky., but more than 50 years ago removed to Frankfort where he was in business until a short time ago.

Washington, April 6.—Land seekers who have stood in line in the North Yakima, Wash., land office since January, awaiting the opportunity to file for irrigated fruit farms in the Tieton project, have had their long vigil in vain. The reclamation service to-day announced that no advantage will be gained by the early filing.

According to the announcement all of the forty farms in the third unit at Tieton, soon to be thrown open will be disposed of by lot. These farms are among the finest fruit lands of the Pacific Northwest, some land in the same project selling as high as $1,200 per acre.

Places in the line at the North Yakima land office had been considered worth from $2,000 to $3,000 each because heretofore the first man who filed had choice of the homestead lands. Men brought reclining chairs into the corridor, had their meals served to them, and have been holding their places, either personally, or by proxy, since about New Year's day.

Repeated warnings to the applicants that they would not gain anything by waiting at the land office door were heeded by some, but at the last reports made to Washington there were fifteen or eighteen persons still in line. The reclamation service announces now that all persons who file may designate the farm they want and all applications for each farm will be put into a box, shaken up and the lucky applicant decided by the drawing of a name.

Lexington Ky. April 6.—Mrs. Arabella Marcum, widow of James B. Marcum, for whose assassination Curt Jett and Tom White are now serving a life sentence in the State penitentiary at Frankfort, arrived here this morning from her home in Jackson, enroute to Frankfort where she will appear before the State Prison Commission to file a vigorous protest against the parole of Jett and White.

Mrs. Marcum has with her many letters from citizens of Jackson and Breathitt county who urge that the parole not be granted. Those who will be filed against the parole of Jett and White, when it was proposed a year ago. Twice has the Prison Commission turned down the application for a parole of Jett and White, but this time, it is said, that strong pressure is being brought to bear by influential Democratic politicians to have the men paroled, the grounds being that they have confessed religion and demonstrated, by their interest in religious work in the prison, that they want to live better lives.

The health of White, it is also said, is breaking down, and this is one reason that his release is being sought by relatives and friends.

Mrs. Marcum, while here to-day, made the significant statement, which has never been published before, that it was White who fired the fatal shot which ended the life of her husband in the Breathitt County Courthouse at Jackson in 1903.

She says that Jett fired the first shot, but that her husband was getting up from where he had fallen when White raised his weapon and shot him through the head, killing him instantly. She says that she has the statement to this effect of

As ignorant of the wiles of evil as a mouse is of the mechanism of a trap, unsophisticated in the blandishments of sins; holding blankly to the belief that sheep and goats never mingle she drops into mael-storm of a city existence as a snowflake settles into the river. "One moment white, then gone forever." There life in waiting for innocence, the wide world over, a legion of plotting devils arrayed in livery of light, honest appearing advertisements that are tent hooks with which the devil angles for souls; employers who scarcely take the pains to hide the fangs of wolves behind their smiling lips; boarding-houses infested with other and more hideous vermin than the rat and the roach; companionship of more fatal effect to the soul than hydrant water to the health; counsellors who spin viewless webs and plot ruin as the spider works destruction to the stupid fly. All these and a great many more, pitfalls lie in the way of the country girl as she turns her light step from the cowslip and the green turf to take her place in the ranks of those who walk the path of daily toil.

Girls, listen to your mothers; you will never regret it. No matter what your advantages are above what hers were you are no better. You can rest assured that it is no book learning or knowledge of fashion that will keep your feet away from the many pitfalls that she can warn you from. In a tender, loving fashion, that you would do well to heed. No matter how mothers may speak, you may rest assured their hearts are in the right place, and that they want their daughters to be innocent and good, rather than fashionable.

True Courtesy.

True courtesy is "the beauty of the heart." How well it is that no class has a monopoly in this kind of beauty; that while favorable circumstances undoubtedly do render good manners more common among persons moving in higher rather than in lower spheres, there should nevertheless be no positive hindrance to the poorest classes having good manners. Here is an illustration of true politeness exhibited by both classes of society. One day, in hastily turning the corners of a crooked street in the city, a young lady ran with great force against a ragged little beggar boy, and almost knocked him down. Stopping as soon as she could, she turned around and said very kindly to the boy, "I beg your pardon, my little fellow. I am very sorry that I ran against you."

The poor boy was astonished. He looked at her for a moment in surprise, and then, taking off about three-quarters of a cap, he made a low bow and said, while a pleasant smile spread itself all over his face, "You can h'ey my parding, miss, and welcome; and the next time you run again me, you can knock me clean down and I won't say a word." After the lady had passed on he turned to his companion and said, "I say, Jim, it's the first time I ever had anybody ask my parding, and it kind o' took me off my feet."

After all that has been said about rare treasures of art and nature that may lend attraction to a home and its surroundings, it remains that the fairest home ornaments are bright joyous faces; and where these are wanting, all else goes for little.

Why He Was Late.

"What made you so late?"
"I met Smithson."
"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."
"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."
"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"
"Sure, that is what he needs."

The mud is rapidly drying up and where the roads are properly ditched and crowned the roads are dry. This in itself is sufficient argument to show that the roads need to be well ditched and crowned. If this was done we would not have the big mud holes and dangerous places that we now have. The roads would be easier put in repair if they were ditched.

After what Bradley has said about O'Rear the halo and the Senator don't connect.

The new German battle-cruiser is named Selditz. One dose of her is warranted to produce results.

Three minutes after being divorced a woman in Philadelphia had married again. And they call the Quaker City slow!

Champ Clark seems to be gaining ground faster than any of the candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

The Springfield Herald says, if Shakespeare is Bacon and bacon is 40 cents a pound, how much is Ham let worth? Referring to the kind Jull-et?

Roosevelt swept Illinois in the primary on Tuesday of this week. Also, at the same time, Champ Clark won over Wilson by an overwhelming plurality.

Editor Sam Roberts, of the Lexington Leader, says that the present Republican Presidential Campaign unfortunately has taken on the aspects of a vendetta, or war of extermination and Mr. Roberts ought to know.

Kentucky Republicans held their Presidential conventions throughout the State last Saturday and Taft won.

The Roosevelt men are howling "fraud" from several places, and Taft's following are alleging unfair methods at other points. Altogether, it is a lively scrimmage. Judge O'Rear, the Roosevelt leader, wants to go to the National convention as a delegate from the State-at-large, but Bradley says he shall not go, and it is a safe bet that Bradley will have his way.

A. Wellman, butcher, Main Cross St., Louisa, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the finest kidney remedy I ever used. I am glad to recommend them publicly. My kidneys gave me great annoyance for years. The action was irregular and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I also had backaches. Different medicines I used gave me no benefit until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. In a short time I began to feel better, and before long I was strong and well. I never tire of praising this excellent preparation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 20 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Suits and Coats of Quality

FAULTLESS IN FIT SUPERB IN DESIGN POPULAR IN PRICE
SELECTIONS THAT ARE SURE TO PLEASE
$15 to $50

Serges and whipcords are favorites and the new cream shades are leaders for spring. What we show in these lines represents the acme of perfection for this season. The styles and the materials combined with exquisite trimmings and accessories make these two items one of the most popular numbers in the entire store.

A TRIAL ALWAYS IS MOST CONVINCING

We believe so thoroughly in the merit of this merchandise that we think that an inspection of the line would be all that is necessary to make the sale. Every new color and weave is represented and the smart styles in the suits with the new revers and trimmings make the purchase of a coat of unusual importance this season. The two fit together and it takes both to give the wearer that air of completeness in dress demanded by the reigning fashion.

Those who have worn our suits and coats know of their excellence. If you have never tried them we have both lost something—we a sale and you some satisfaction in your purchase—quality counts here and we have been in the business sufficiently long to know what is right and what is demanded from season to season. We solicit a trial this season assuring that the word satisfaction as applied to garments will take on a new and pleasing significance after you have tried out your purchase.

On Saturday afternoon last Mrs. F. T. D. Wallace, Sr., entertained the Woman's Missionary Society and her Sunday school class at her home. The occasion was a very pleasant one.

Mr. William Chambers, of the Point, was taken suddenly ill on Saturday last while standing on the sidewalk near the Louisa National bank. He was quite sick but recovered and was able to go to his home after a short time.

C. F. Millender, a former member of the legislature from this county and a prominent business man, of Louisa, Ky., was the over Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Ferguson of Chestnut street.—Kenova Enterprise.

We had a storm on Easter day, a vernal flood. It sure did blight in woeful way the girlish buds. But "buds" were not the only ones that fell the spring time showers. The hopes, alas! were sadly crushed of many full-blown "flowers."

Skene and Richmond were the successful bidders on a contract to construct seven bridges on the New York barge canal between Buffalo and Albany. The work is to be completed within a year, and will be started at the earliest possible date. The firm is composed of Frank Skene, of Chicago, and J. L. Richmond, of Louisa.

There are nine cases of typhoid fever at Sandy Hook, Elliott county, and two deaths are reported in the last week. This is the second epidemic there within a year. The State Medical Board sent an inspector there last fall and examined all the wells, but he failed to find typhoid germs in the water. The source of the trouble is somewhat of a mystery.

Mr. John McDyer, an experienced and competent civil engineer, was here from Catlettsburg this week. He is a native of this county and was a pupil of the old Masonic Academy. Mr. McDyer, like many of the old "boys," has made good in mature life, and like the others, he is quick to give due credit to him who started him on the way to proper and successful living. Of this the now gray and bald instructor is duly proud.

Prosecutor Waugh left for home Wednesday to return next Tuesday. When the NEWS went to press the case of the Commonwealth against Mrs. William Hughes, charged with striking and wounding Mrs. Sam Carter with intent to kill, was in progress.

The home of John Ward, at Lower Greasy, was destroyed by fire on last Thursday morning at about 3 o'clock. The three year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ward was burned to death. All the household goods and clothing, on which there was no insurance, was destroyed. Mr. Ward was a miner.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Keith, a typical border plainer, is riding along the Santa Fe trail on the lookout for roaming bands of savages. Keith had won his name as a captain in a Virginia regiment during the civil war. He had left the service to find his old southern home in the heart of the West, and the discovery of wild western life had allured him. He notices a camp fire at a distance and then sees a team attached to a wagon and a full gallop pursued by him on ponies.

CHAPTER II.—When Keith reaches the wagon the raiders have massacred the men, shot the horses and departed. He searches the victims finding papers and a pocket with a woman's portrait. He resolves to hunt down the murderers.

CHAPTER III.—Keith reaches Carson and is arrested there charged with killing and robbing the two travelers. The accused is given as Black Bart, a famous ruffian.

CHAPTER IV.—They can readily swear to Keith. The latter goes to the jail realizing the peril of his position. A companion in his cell is a man, who tells him he is Ned and that he knew the Keith family back in Virginia.

CHAPTER V.—Ned knows about the murdered men from the description of Keith. He says one was John Hibley, the other Gen. Willis Waite, formerly an officer in the Confederate army.

CHAPTER VI.—The plainer and his friend escape from the cell.

CHAPTER VII.—The two fugitives are lost in the sand desert.

CHAPTER VIII.—They come upon a small herd of cattle. Keith recognizes Ned as a singer he saw at Carson City.

CHAPTER IX.—The girl explains that she came there in search of a brother who had deserted from the army. She met a Mr. Hawley, who had induced her to come to the cabin while he sought to locate her brother.

CHAPTER X.—Hawley appears, and Keith in hiding recognizes him as the notorious Black Bart. Hawley tries to lead him to the girl.

CHAPTER XI.—There is a terrific battle in the darkened room in which Keith recognizes Black Bart. Horses are apprehended, and the girl who says that her name is Hope, John in the escape.

CHAPTER XII.—Keith explains his situation as a fugitive from justice.

CHAPTER XIII.—The fugitives make their way to the Arkansas aiming to reach Fort Larned.

CHAPTER XIV.—Here the girl is left in charge of the hotel landlady.

CHAPTER XV.—Keith is riding Black Bart's horse, and in the saddle-bags discovers a letter bearing the name of Christie MacLaure and he believes Miss Hope is her sister. He disclaims that name. Miss Hope tells the landlady that she is the daughter of General Waite.

CHAPTER XVI.—The fugitives Keith and Ned, find a friend named Fairbairn, a post. The plainer speaks of the help of General Waite, but Fairbairn says that he saw the general alive in prison only the day previous.

CHAPTER XVII.—At the tavern Keith, who is joined by the two men in the adjoining apartment. One of them says of trying to find Black Bart. His companion, Fred Willoughby, of a is the assumed name of the brother, Hope Waite. When the other man hears, Keith enters the room.

CHAPTER XVIII.—Willoughby acknowledges that Hope is his sister, but is evasive about Christie MacLaure.

CHAPTER XIX.—An overheard conversation convinces Keith that Hope Waite is the stage singer. He believes that Black Bart has some plot in progress involving the two girls and the fugitive brother.

CHAPTER XX.—Hope, getting a clew to the fact that General Waite is at Larned, starts for that town.

CHAPTER XXI.—Hope Waite is mistaken for Christie MacLaure at Sheridan.

CHAPTER XXII.—Keith meets the real Christie MacLaure and finds that she has convinced her that there is a mystery in her life which he is going to solve to her advantage.

CHAPTER XXIII.—The plainer calls on Hope Waite and tells of her resemblance to Christie MacLaure. They decide that Fred Willoughby may hold the key to the situation.

CHAPTER XXIV.—Keith locates Willoughby, but it is to find the army deserter just shot dead by a lawless gang.

CHAPTER XXV.—Hope is told of the death of her brother by Keith. He again meets Christie MacLaure.

CHAPTER XXVI.—Keith tries to learn that representations Black Bart has made to the stage singer, but she declines to tell him.

CHAPTER XXVII.—Hope suggests that in order to learn the secret of Black Bart he must briefly impersonate Christie.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Dr. Fairbairn is in the company with Christie MacLaure, and Keith deceives him to detain her from the stage. Miss Hope goes to the theater where she meets Black Bart.

CHAPTER XXIX.—Black Bart really believing Hope to be Christie MacLaure, tells her that General Waite has suggested his plans about an inheritance and that they must fly. Hope is alarmed and demurs.

CHAPTER XXX.—General Waite appears and confronts Christie MacLaure. He tells Black Bart has stolen papers from him regarding an inheritance.

CHAPTER XXXI.—Keith coming upon the scene is informed by General Waite that Christie MacLaure is the half sister of Hope. The latter has been carried away by Black Bart and his gang.

CHAPTER XXXII.—Dr. Fairbairn avows his love for Phyllis. She accepts him.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Following the Trail.
The withdrawal of the sheriff merely stimulated Keith to greater activity. It was clearly evident the fugitives were endeavoring with all rapidity possible to get beyond where the hand of law could reach them—their trail striking directly across the plains into the barren southwest was proof of this purpose. Yet it was scarcely likely they would proceed very far in that direction, as such a course would bring them straight into the heart of the Indian country, into greater danger than that from which they fled. Keith felt no doubt that Hawley intended making for Carson City, where he could securely hide the girl, and where he possessed friends to rally to his defence, even an influence over the officers of the law. The one thing which puzzled him most was the man's object in attempting so desperate a venture. Did he know his prisoner was Hope Waite? or did he still suppose he was running off with Christie MacLaure? Could some rumor of Waite's appeal to the courts have reached the gambler, frightened him, and caused him to attempt this desperate effort at escape? and did he bear Miss MacLaure with him, hoping to keep her safely concealed until he was better prepared to come out in open fight? If this was the actual state of affairs then it would account for much otherwise hard to explain. The actress would probably not have been missed, or, at least, seriously sought after, until she failed to appear at the theater the following evening. This delay would give the fugitives a start of twenty hours, or even more, and practically assure their safety. Besides, in the light of Waite's application to the sheriff for assistance, it was comparatively easy to conceive of a valid reason why Hawley should vanish, and desire, likewise, to take Miss MacLaure with him. But there was no apparent occasion for his forcible abduction of Hope. Of course, he might have done so from a suddenly aroused fit of anger at some discovery the girl had made, yet everything pointed rather to a deliberate plan. Both horses and men were certainly waiting there under orders, Hawley's adherents in charge, and every arrangement perfected in advance. Clearly enough the gambler had planned it all out before he ever went to the Trocadero—no doubt the completion of these final arrangements was what delayed his appearance at the hotel. If this was all true, then it must have been Christie, and not Hope, he purposed bearing away with him, and the latter was merely a victim of her masquerade.

What would result when the man discovered his mistake? Such a discovery could not be delayed long, although the girl was quick-witted, and would surely realize that her personal safety depended upon keeping up the deception to the last possible moment. Yet the discovery must finally occur, and there was no guessing what form Hawley's rage would assume when he found himself baffled, and all his plans for a fortune overturned. Keith fully realized Hope's peril, and his own helplessness to serve her in this emergency was agony. As they hurried back to the town, he briefly reviewed these conclusions with Waite and Fairbairn, all alike agreeing there was nothing remaining for them to do except to take up the trail. The fugitives had already gained too great an advantage to be overhauled, but they might be traced to whatever point they were heading for. In spite of the start being so far to the west, Keith was firmly convinced that their destination would prove to be Carson City.

Procuring horses at the corral, their forces augmented by two volunteers—both men of experience—Keith, Waite, Fairbairn and Ned departed without delay, not even pausing to eat but taking the necessary food with them. The sun had barely risen when they took up the trail, and a man named Bristoe, slightly in advance, their keen eyes marking every slight sign left for guidance across the bare plain. It was a comparatively easy trail to follow, leading directly into the southwest, the pony tracks cutting into the sod as though the reckless riders had bunched together, their horses trotting rapidly. Evidently no attempt had been made at concealment, and this served to convince the pursuers that Hawley still believed his captive to be Miss MacLaure, and that her disappearance would not be suspected until after nightfall. In that case the trail could not be discovered before the following morning, and with such a start, pursuit would be useless. Tireless, steadily, scarcely speaking except upon the business in hand, the pursuers pressed forward at an easy trot, Keith, in spite of intense anxiety, with the remembrance of old cavalry days to guide him, insisting upon sparing the horses as much as possible. This was to be a stern chase and a long one, and it was impossible to tell when they could procure remounts. The constant swerving of the trail westward seemed to shatter his earlier theory, and brought him greater uneasiness. Finally he spoke of it to the old plainsman beside him.

"What do you suppose those fellows are heading so far west for, Ben? They are taking a big risk of running into hostiles."

"Oh, I don't know," returned the other gravely, lifting his eyes to the far-off sky line. "I reckon from the news that come in last night from Hays, that ain't no Injuns a rangin' that way just now. They're too blame busy out on the Arickaree. Maybe them fellers heard the same story, an' that's what makes 'em go bold."

"What story? I've heard nothing." "Why, it's like this, Cap," drawing out the words, "leastways, that's how it come inter Sheridan; 'Sandy' Forsythe an' his outfit, mostly plainsmen, started a while ago across Solomon River an' down Beaver Creek, headin' fer Fort Wallace. Over on the Arickaree, the whole damned Injun outfit jumped 'em. From all I heard, there must a bin nigh onto three thousand o' the varmints, droppin' on 'em all at once, hell-bent-fer-election, with ol' Roman Nose a leadin' 'em. It was shore a good fight, fer the scouts got onto an island an' stopped the bucks. Two of the fellers got through to Wallace yist'day, an' a courier brought the news inter Hays. The Injuns had them boys cooped up thar fer eight days before them fellers got out, an' I reckon it'll be two or three days more 'fore the bigger sokers they sent out ter help ever git thar. So thar won't be no Injuns 'long this route 'an' we travelin', fer the whole kit an' caboodle are up thar yit after 'Sandy.'"

"And you suppose Hawley knew about this?" "Why not, Cap? He was hangin' 'round till after ten o'clock las' night, an' it was all over town by then. 'Tain't likely he's got an outfit 'long with him that's lost any Injuns. I don't know whar they're bound, no morn' you do, but I reckon they're reasonably sure they've got a clear road."

They pulled up on the banks of a small stream to water their horses, and ate hastily. The trail led directly across, and with only the slightest possible delay they forded the shallow water, and mounted the opposite bank. A hundred yards farther on Bristoe reined up suddenly, pointing down at the trail.

"One hoss left the bunch here," he declared positively. Keith swung himself out of the saddle, and bent over to study the tracks. There was no doubting the evidence—a single horse—the only one shod in the bunch—with a rider on its back, judging from the deep imprint of the hoofs, had swerved sharply to the left of the main body, heading directly into the southeast. The plainsman ran forward for a hundred yards to assure himself the man had not circled back; at that point the animal had been spurred into a lope. Keith rejoined the others.

"Must have been about daylight they reached here," he said, picking up his dangling rein, and looking into the questioning faces about him. "The fellow that rode out yonder alone was heading straight toward Carson City. He is going for fresh horses, I figure it, and will rejoin the bunch some place down on the Arkansas. 'Sners intend to keep farther west, where they won't be seen. What do you say, Ben?"

"That's the way it looms up ter me, Cap; most likely 'twas the boss himself."

"Well, whoever it was, the girl is still with the others, and their trail is the easiest to follow. We'll keep after them."

They pushed on hour after hour, as long as daylight lasted or they could perceive the faintest trace to follow. Already half-convinced that he knew the ultimate destination of the fugitives, Keith yet dare not venture on pressing forward during the night, thus possibly losing the trail and being compelled to retrace their steps. It was better to proceed slow and sure. Besides, judging from the condition of their own horses, the pursued would be compelled to halt somewhere to rest their stock also. Their trail even revealed the fact that they were traveling far less rapidly than at first, although evidently making every effort to cover the greatest possible distance before stopping. Just as the dusk shut in close about them they rode down into the valley of Shawnee Fork, and discovered signs of a recent camp at the edge of the stream. Here, apparently, judging from the camp-fire ashes, and the trampled grass along the Fork, the party must have halted for several hours. By lighting matches Keith and Bristoe discerned where some among them had laid down to sleep, and, through various signs, decided they must have again departed some five or six hours previous, one of their horses limping as if lame. The tired pursuers went into camp at the same spot, but without venturing to light any fire, merely snatching a cold bite, and dropping off to sleep with heads pillowed upon their saddles.

They were upon the trail again with the first dinness of the gray dawn, wading the waters of the Fork, and striking forth across the dull level of brown prairie and white alkali toward the Arkansas. They saw nothing all day moving in that wide vista about them, but rode steadily, scarcely exchanging a word, determined, grim, never swerving a yard from the faint trail. The pursued were moving slower, hampered, no doubt, by their lame horse, but were still well in advance. Moreover, the strain of the saddle was already beginning to tell severely on Waite, weakened somewhat by years, and the pursuers were compelled to halt oftener on his account. The end of the second day found them approaching the broken land bordering the Arkansas valley, and just before nightfall they picked up a lame horse, evidently discarded by the party ahead.

By this time Keith had reached a definite decision as to his course. If the fugitives received a fresh relay of horses down there somewhere, and crossed the Arkansas, he felt positively sure as to their destination. But it would be useless pushing on after them in the present shape of his party—their horses worn out, and Waite reeling giddily in the saddle. If Hawley's outfit crossed the upper ford, toward which they were evidently heading, and struck through the sand hills, then they were making for the refuge of that lone cabin on Salt Fork. Should this prove true, then it was probable the gambler had not even yet discovered the identity of Hope. For if he had, he would scarcely venture upon taking her there, knowing that Keith would naturally suspect the spot. But Keith would not be likely to personally take up the trail in search for Christie MacLaure. It must have been Hawley then who had left the party and ridden east, and up to that time he had not found out his mistake. Yet if he brought out the fresh animals the chances were that Hope's identity would be revealed. Bristoe, who had turned aside to examine the straying horse, came trotting up.

"Belonged to their outfit all right, Cap," he reported, "carries the double cross brand and that shebang is upon the Smokey; saddle galls still bleeding."

Waite was now suffering so acutely they were obliged to halt before gaining sight of the river, finding, fortunately, a water-hole fed by a spring. As soon as the sick man could be made comfortable, Keith gave to the others his conclusions, and listened to what they had to say. Bristoe favored clinging to the trail, even though they must travel slowly, but Fairbairn insisted that Waite must be taken to some town where he could be given necessary care. Keith finally decided the matter.

"None can be more anxious to reach those fellows than I am," he declared, "but I know that country out south, and we'll never get through to the Salt Fork without fresh horses. Besides, as the doctor says, we've got to take care of Waite. If we find things as I expect we'll ride for Carson City, and re-outfit there. What's more, we won't lose much time—it's a shorter ride from there to the cabin than from here."

By morning the General was able to sit his saddle again, and leaving him with Ned to follow slowly, the others spurred forward, discovered an outlet through the bluff into the valley, and crossed the Santa Fe Trail. It was not easy to discover where those in advance had passed this point, but they found evidence of a late camp in a little grove of cottonwoods beside the river. There were traces of two trails leading to the spot, one being that of the same five horses they had been following so long, the other not so easily read, as it had been traversed in both directions, the different hoof marks obliterating each other. Bristoe, creeping about on hands and knees, studied the signs with the eyes of an Indian.

"You kin see the difference yere whar the ground is soft, Cap," he said, pointing to some tracks plainer than the others. "This yere hoss had a rider, but the rest of 'em was led; that's why they've bungled up their trail so. An' it wa'n't thar same bunch that went back east what come from thar—see that split hoof! thar ain't no split hoof p'intin' thar other way—but yere is the mark of the critter that puts her foot down so fur outside that we've been a trailin' from Sheridan, an' she's p'intin' east, an' being led. Now, let's see whar the bunch went from yere with that split hoof."

This was not so easily accomplished owing to the nature of the ground, but at last the searchers stumbled onto tracks close in under the bank, and one of these revealed the split hoof.

"That makes it clear, Ben," exclaimed Keith, decidedly, staring out across the river at the white sandhills. "They have kept on the edge of the water, making for the ford, which is yonder at the bend. They are out in the sand desert by this time riding for the Salt Fork. Whoever he was, the fellow brought them five horses, and the five old ones were taken east again on the trail. The girl is still with the party, and we'll go into Carson City and re-outfit."

WHAT THEY MEAN.

Explanation of the Initiative, Referendum and the Recall.

What is the Initiative, the referendum and the recall?

They are words in everybody's mouths just now, but a pretty fair proportion of those who talk about them have a vague idea of what they mean.

Summing them up, they may be said to be three instruments whereby the representative system of government so long in use in this country will be considerably enfeebled and the people will obtain a more direct Government than they ever had. State after state is adopting one or all of these new measures. When the nineteenth century closed only one state had the initiative and referendum, now many states have it. The recall did not come into existence in America until 1905, but now the country is dotted with communities where it is in force and is actively used.

All these three propositions are

MAN AND THE SOIL.

Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, author of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, says "why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates. He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor, or by ill-health induced by some chronic disease." Further, he says, "the great value of my Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach and purity to the blood. It is like the phosphates which supply nature with the substances that build up the crops. The far-reaching action of

is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach. A bilious spell is simply the result of an effort made by the liver to catch up when over-worked and exhausted. I have found the 'Discovery' to be unsurpassed as a liver regulator and rich blood-maker."

Miss LOTTIE KNISELY of Perth, Kansas, says: "I will here add my testimony of the effectiveness of your remedy upon myself. I was troubled with indigestion for two years or more. Doctored with three different doctors besides taking numerous kinds of so-called 'stomach cures' but received no permanent relief. I was run down, could not sleep at night with the pain in my chest, caused by gas on the stomach. Was weak, could eat scarcely anything although I was hungry nearly all the time. About one year and a half ago I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after having taken several bottles am nearly cured of stomach trouble. Can now eat without distress and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I thank you for your remedy and wish you all success in your good work."

importations from Switzerland, where the initiative and referendum have been in force for half a century, the recall not so long.

The states and cities that have adopted these Swiss innovations have varied and altered them to suit the local taste, so that a definition of the referendum as it exists in one state does not always describe the same law in another. But the fundamental principles are usually the same and may be summed up as follows:

The Initiative—If a certain percentage of voters wish a certain law adopted they can submit it to the Legislature, which must in turn, submit it to a referendum.

The Referendum—If a certain number of voters demand an opportunity to vote upon a bill, the Legislature must submit it to them, and the people decide by vote whether it shall or shall not become a law. Just as in New York State they vote upon an amendment to the State constitution. The referendum can be demanded, not only on bills previously proposed by the initiative, but upon bills which have their origin in the Legislature itself.

The Recall—If a certain percentage of voters demand the right to decide whether a public official shall continue to hold office or must retire to private life, the question must be submitted to the people at an election. If they vote against him he must give up his office, whether the term for which he was elected is anywhere near its end or is just beginning.

"The Initiative," said Henry James Ford, of Princeton University in an address before the Economic Club of Boston, "means simply this—that sections of the people themselves shall have the right to initiate legislation and to solicit for it the approval of their fellow-citizens."

The referendum means that if the Legislature passes a measure, that measure shall be referred to the people before it comes a law."

And in Oregon the Governor has no veto power over measures enacted by the people themselves.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by All dealers.

For eight years I suffered with the dreadful malady. Doctors pronounced that I would have consumption in a short while and I really thought so myself. And I kept using anything and everything that was recommended for catarrh, but gave up all hopes, when a friend of mine wanted to sell me a box of W. D. Fitzpatrick's Catarrh Remedy. I said no, I'll not buy it. I have used so many remedies that were worthless it makes me doubt all the rest. My son was present and he said, 'Father, if you will use it I will pay for it.' I agreed to the proposal, and began using it, and I soon felt that I was receiving good results. I continued on until I used the box nearly up and now I am well. I cannot praise The W. D.
